We invite to all our readers to join us.

Looking Ahead

- Prof. Naik L.S., Prof. Magdum P.G. and Prof. Athalye S. S. have attended two week STTP program on “Pedagogy for effective use of ICT in Engineering Education” ISTE workshop by IIT Mumbai at FAMT, during 5th – 31st January 2015.
- Prof. Gamare P.S. has published a paper on “An Efficient Concept Based Mining Model for Web Page Clustering”, in International Journals of IJETT, Vol. 21, and ISSN No. 2231-5381 on March 2015.

Technology and Innovations

Our relationship with mobile carriers has grown more terse in recent years, and the tech industry has taken note. T-Mobile is attempting to shove the idea of being an “uncarrier” down our throats, while still retaining many of the debilitating securities that has defined the cellular service business, but other, genuinely interesting, cards, which connect to a single service provider, the Fi SIM allows a user’s phone to dance between Wi-Fi, T-Mobile or Sprint, and does so automatically, depending on what signal is strongest. It’s a powerful idea, to have optimum connectivity with little hand-wringing, but unfortunately for early-adopters and big dreamers, Google’s Project Fi still has goliath companies standing in its way. Nonetheless, the concept is game-changing.

ideas have be born from all the tension.
One of them is Google's Project Fi, which not only offers aggressive pricing and refreshing simplicity, but is built on cool tech as well.
Unlike most SIM
